Bradley Davis

Bradley Davis decided to make a career change a few years ago and do something he found more fulfilling.

He turned to teacher training and completed his Diploma in Teaching in the Lifelong Learning Sector (DTLLS) course at CONEL's Enfield Centre. He says of his new career choice: "Before I started teacher training success was all about my accomplishments, after it's about giving back to society."

From CONEL student to employee, Bradley now teaches Employability Skills and Mathematics at the College.

He said of his work: "By inspiring others to learn, they dream more, I help them build their dreams."

Student Profiles: Tipped for Success

Denise Burke

Education and Training Diploma Level 5

"I thoroughly enjoyed studying at CONEL. It was a great experience and my teachers were just brilliant. I completed the course while studying for a Level 5 Diploma in Education and Training. It was hard work but it was worth it. I'm now working as a tutor at the College. "

A great experience

Amela Shiroka

Teaching English: Literacy and ESOL Diploma Level 5

"I have a real passion for teaching and learning. The teachers were brilliant throughout the course whenever I needed any support. It helped me to really develop my skills and I achieved high grades, and I have now got a job as an ESOL tutor at the College. "

Achieving top marks

Charmaine Williams

PGCE in Post Graduate Compulsory Education

"I cannot fault the College. It was an excellent course. The Teacher Education team worked very well to provide us with great support. They had a wealth of experience between them, and improved my knowledge of teaching standards and practices. "

Changing lives

CONEL has been a wonderful place to study and learn the skills that I have needed to become a successful teacher.

During my PGCE my lecturers were amazing and extremely supportive in my endeavours to pass the course successfully.

The qualification I achieved was a Level 7 PGCE. I am now a Business Studies Teacher and Enrichment Officer working at CONEL college.

My job is very challenging yet rewarding as everyday I am influencing and changing lives for the better. My students are learning new things and I learn from them also.
